

ABSTRACT

In multi-path regions of high wave strength, noise in produced sounds of a vehicle audio system is reduced due to controlling of amplification of radio waves received by an on-glass antenna on the basis of wave strength at a running position of a vehicle and its change rate.

5